OrganWise Guys Back To School Back To good Health Kit Giveaway

October 3, 2010 By Momstart 53 Comments

Remember the OrganWise Guys Summer Time kit that I posted about? Well, we colored all of the pages read the books and then received the back to school kit. Now, I've been extremely busy since getting back from BlogHer, Zoe started preschool, and Miles and I have been having mommy son dates. We've been having so much time learning together and I've just been really happy spending time with the kids.

What's been really crazy is that all along, even at the beginning of the Summer, Miles is the one that has had more interest in learning about the organs and playing with the Organwise Guys toys. Zoe has been the one that loves to color the coloring pages and activities, but they both like looking at the book. We recently received the OrganWise Guys Back To School Kit and enjoyed learning even more. Every time I look at it it makes me think of Xmen because the Sir Rebrum, is so close to the name of the machine that Xavier uses in the movie. Anyways, we're learning about the brain here guys!

I know some of you reading my blog think that I don't care about my kids health, but I DO! I love teaching them about how important exercise is and how everything in your body works together to be healthy. We've been teaching the kids that exercise make the heart stronger, and eating healthy is good for the brain and for the heart. It's in their own terms and these kits from OrganWise Guys are helping me to teach the kids with pictures and plush. The plush I like to put right up to them and say, this is where your heart goes, and this is where your brain is. It's fun to see Zoe's eyes light up like, are you serious?

*Imagine if your body could speak to you. Really. Imagine if it could really speak to you. For children, learning has to be imaginative and fun. So, as the childhood obesity crisis persists, teaching children about health and wellness is imperative but it has to be imaginative and fun. See for yourself by visiting <http://www.organwiseguys.com/kids.html> and listening to The Buddy Song. Imagine if your body could speak to you. Really. Imagine if it could really speak to you. Enter To Win:

The OrganWise Guys Back to School Kit:

 Monthly Healthy Behavior Tracking Calendar: With the start of a new school year, take on a new healthy behavior each month! The calendar is designed for use beginning any month of any year.

 Sir Rebrum Plush Toy: The brainy but cute professor is also the leading caricature in the Breakfast Skippin' Blues Video

 School Days Here We Come! Book: It's the first day of school and time to meet all The OrganWise Guys classmates and see where they live!

 Breakfast Skippin' Blues Video: Sir Rebrum is having a hard time remembering his lines in a school play. Can you guess what he forgot to do that morning?

The cast of The OrganWise Guys — Hardy Heart, Peri Stolic (the large intestine), Sir Rebrum, Pepto the Stomach and Sid and Kid Kidney (The Kidney Brothers) along with buddies Calci M. Bone, Windy the Lungs and Madame Muscle, is a collection of friendly, delightfully eccentric characters that are cleverly personified body parts. They invite parents and their children to join them on child-friendly experiences as they learn to incorporate healthy eating and physical activity into their daily lives.

I am going to go with my Kidney Brothers! Because they really help keep your body clean of waste. I know they couldn't function with out Sir Rebrum and Hardy Heart and Windy Lungs but I think they rock!

I love OrganWise Guys!
